DRY CLEANING IN YOUR OWN HOME

Questions and Answers

Please tell me some way to keep my easts firm and to bleach a red neck. Ill you tell me through the Beauty Chate no to oure my hands from perspiring fine McF.

Few women can afford to discard a garment because it is too soiled to wear. Yet repeated visits to the professional dry cleaner will soon equal their original price in the cost of cleaning. There are few garments that cannot be successfully cleaned at home.

Supply of bran, ground rice, dry salt and cornmeal, as well as gasolene.

Preparing the Articles.

Prepare each article to be cleaned, with the exception of gloves or slippers, by removing all dust and grease. A good brushing will usually rout dust while grease can be removed by that cannot be successfully cleaned at home.

When there are several daughters in the family who have dance frocks, slippers, gloves and other dainty accessories dear to the feminine heart to be kept spotless a knowledge of the simple method of home cleaning will prove invaluable.

The successfully cleaned at home.

A good brushing will usually rout dust, while grease can be removed by laying heavy brown paper or a blotter over it. The "shine" can be removed from worsted materials by sponging them with ammonia water and pressing gently on the wrong side.

For cleaning garments of worsted materials use dry kitchen salt in this manner: Crush the salt with a roll.

manner: Crush the salt with a rolling pin, and run it through a fine wire sieve to remove the lumps. Lay the garment flat on a table, sprinkle it with salt, and, using a piece of clean, But before we proceed further we want to caution you about the danger of using gasolene in connection with heat. When gasolene is the cleansing with salt, and, using a piece of clean, white linen folded into a pad, rub the salt well into the fabric. Rub the goods only one way, that is, with the nap, using long, even strokes.

When every inch of the surface has been cleaned with the salt remove it with a stiff brush. If the hem or doors, on a back porch or in a room where there is no heat or gaslight. All

The canning of fruits and vegeables on the farm is growing into an industry of some importance from a commercial point of view, and of in-estimable value from the standpoint of home economics. In almost every general farming community in the country are raised great quantities of fruits and vegetables that never reach the market fresh, and in the past most of this has been waste or at best stock food. For years, through its canning clubs, the department of agriculture has been spreading knowledge of how to preserve this food for winter use in the home, and for shipment to mar-ket. Formerly the most thrifty housewives always put up a few "ureserves" to vary the farm diet in the winter, these being limited almost always to fruits. Now, on many farms, not only fruits but vegetables and "greens" are regularly preserved according to the methods taught by the department. "A can of fruit, a can of vegetables, and a can of greens for every American family for every day in the year" is one of the slogans of the state relations service, which has Recently this bureau sent out a call to its field agents in all parts of the country to come to Washington for a special course in canning. In the wellequipped government laboratories these men and women, who do the actual demonstration work on the farms, were given a systematic course of lectures and experiments by Dr. George E. Ferrall, who is the government's expert on the subject of fruit and charge of this work.

Reply—Perspiring bands are due to poor circulation and to a clogged colon. Take a daily hot-water injection for the latter and a blood tonic for the former. A white neck will follow the righting of the above-named conditions. Swimming is best for flabby breasts. Also a nightly massage with cocos butter or cilve oil, followed by a rold water aprox. regetable canning. One point emphasized by Dr. Fer-rall is that the whole burden of this work should not be thrown upon women. The farm woman cannot possibly preserve all the fruits and vegetables which can be used or sold by the family, and the men should therefore help whenever possible.

This book will be of great help and interest to every woman who cooks. It gives 153 recipes for tasty and attractive dishes that can be made from canned foods. It gives recipes for making sauces, pastes and ssings in the menu-possibilities that can be easily, quickly and cheap-ly realized. It is the first book to tell how to make the most of canned goods and every housekeeper knows what that means nowadays.—Wom-an's World for September.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

Inexpensive but practical for a present is a roll of dust cloths. A good quality of cheesecloth should be used. After being cut the edges should be rolled and held in place by crossstitching, then in the opposite, thus securing the hem with cross-stitching. A simple cross-stitch initial may be worked in each corner.

The newest breakfast doilies are extremely practical, either in the square or circular shape, as they are large enough to hold the service for one person. Where four are to be seated, four squares large enough to meet at the corners are used. At a table for six, the squares are somewhat smaller. Round centerpieces are used with the square dollies, which are large chough to accommodate the service plate, silver cup and saucer, tumbler

OLD GLORY GLOVES ARE THE LATEST FAD

The woman who is truly patrioticand in the present fervor of preparedness talk it is quite the fashion so to be—will pause with interest to lock at the new preparedness gloves. They are made of the usual heavy white kid of fine quality and instead of being stitched on the back with white or black stitching—as gloves usually are—these are decorated with the colors of Old Glory.

To wear a pair of these gloves one would perhaps have to be a little venturesome, but then wearing the latest fashion always requires a little temerity and as a matter of fact, these gloves are exceedingly attractive.
